School Board of Loudon.

REPORT OF SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS

February 3, 1925.

To the School Board and Citizens:

It was most satisfying to myself, as well as to the school board, when the voters at the last annual meeting gave proof that they were willing to support the necessary financial program when that program was definitely understood.

This leads me to open this report with an attempt to guard against any misunderstanding this year.

As I write, all the figures are not at hand; but it seems probable that the Board will be obliged to ask for a deficiency appropriation this year. The voters will ask how this comes about when all the money asked for at the last annual meeting was raised. This question I shall try to answer clearly.

The amount of state aid paid to the district each year is based on the budget not of the current year but of the past year. Our budget of this year is larger by several hundred dollars than that of last year. This means an increase of several hundred dollars in state aid. But this increase will not be paid to us until December, 1925, too late to pay the balance of our bills at the close of the year in June, 1925.

With careful budget-making the $5 tax for a given year plus the state aid based on that year's budget should, in general, support the elementary schools for that year. But the $5 tax for a given year plus the state aid based on the previous year's budget will not do so when the previous year's budget was smaller than this year's.

Now there are three ways in which the district can provide the means to balance this budget: (1) Some districts plan to maintain a working balance in excess of anticipated expenditures to provide against unforeseen increases in the budget. (2) Whenever the school board can foresee, at the time of the annual meeting in March that the budget for the year commencing in the following September is bound to be larger than for the current year, they may recommend that the district raise a sum in excess of the $5 tax for the support of elementary schools. (3) The district may raise the $5 tax and at the March meeting of the following year may raise, as a deficiency appropriation, the amount needed for the remaining three months of the year.

Any of the above methods is, in effect, an advance by the district in anticipation of state aid. The first and second methods are perhaps less likely to create misunderstanding on the part of citizens. The third method is the cheapest, since the advance is made at the latest possible moment before bills are due. By this method, too, it is possible to make a very close estimate of the actual amount needed to carry the schools through the year. We now know, for example, that high school tuition will not cost as much as we had expected. The balance on this item will help reduce the amount of the deficiency appropriation.

The principal items of increase this year have been the expense of opening the Yellow school and the increase in the salaries of other teachers. The four trained teachers whom we are employing this year are costing us (eventually the state) more money than the same number of untrained, inexperienced girls would cost. The success of all of them has been so evident to me that I hope many parents will feel that their salaries have been a good investment. Considering also the high quality of work done by your resident teachers and the promising start made by the new teachers at the White and the Yellow schools, this is by far the most satisfactory year since I have known your schools.

Among the many things which might be done, ought to be done, to improve our buildings, I will select two for emphasis: (1) A new floor has long been needed at the Brown school. (2) The welfare of the children at the Pearl school really demands some sort of ventilating heater, either a jacketed stove or some better form. It is not fair to the children to place twenty-three of them in that room under present conditions. While the Moore building is of much the same sort, it at present has fewer children.

I wish the district might persuade itself that it is sound policy to make of one building each year a thoroughly modern schoolhouse, with satisfactory heat, light, ventilation, toilet arrangements, etc. Why not the Pearl school this year?

Respectfully,

GEORGE W. SUMNER.
